Subject	We cannot afford to be timid

Colleagues, I will say what others are thinking. Lan is too cautious. VPBank is offering us eight billion dong over three years. If we do not scale, YouthWorks will eat our lunch in Binh Duong within a year.

I have spoken informally to contacts at the provincial Department of Labour. They will back us if we commit to Long An. This is our moment. Let us not waste it.

Thank you, T.N. I share the ambition. My concern is that our Dong Nai hub is not yet delivering, and scaling a model that is not working simply multiplies the problem. I have asked for an external review before we commit. I hope the Board will support that.

For what it is worth, donors fund growth stories, not pauses. A 'stop and fix' narrative will cost us momentum with VPBank and others. We should commit publicly and solve the operational issues in parallel.
